DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 8 and 10-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Regele et al. (U.S. Patent 6,374,455).

Regele discloses a tubular receptacle (25, 25c) including a base (82a), with an external cylindrical member (30) having a hinged member (40) and an internal cylindrical member (27), mounted directly there to and in contact there with (Figures 2 and 2a).

There is a protrusion at the free end of the hinged member.

Regarding claims 11-13 and 15, the hinge member is capable of moving in a manner commensurate with claim limitations. Because these are apparatus and not method for mounting claims, no further patentable weight has been given to the relative movements of additional structures.

The internal member is threaded.

There is a groove (39) on the external member.

Regarding claim 17, structures are connected by the apparatus of Regele.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Regele et al., as applied above.

Regele does not teach the thinner hinged end; however, it is well known to include this configuration on similar types of hinged structures in order to ease displacement of the free end. For this purpose, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a thinner section with Regele.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed July 24, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The rejection has been changed such that all parts are located on single element 25 (Figure 2) or 25c (Figure 2c). There are no structure recited which prevent the elements of this part from meeting the recitations of "external" and "internal."

Regarding claim 11, this is substantially a process of mounting claim within an apparatus claim; therefore, limited patentable weight has been given to the recitations therein. Because the hinged member would naturally move during insertion, and because some back and forth movement would be towards and away from the opposing member, claim limitations are deemed to be met.

Regarding claim 15, there is no structure recited with respect to the second member. Because Regele is threaded, some other member could be screwed thereon. That another member could be screwed on meets claim recitations.
